Handwritten text at the top of the page, likely a title or header, written in a cursive script.

Main body of handwritten text, organized into several lines. The script is dense and cursive, typical of historical Tibetan manuscripts. The text appears to be a religious or philosophical treatise.

Handwritten text at the bottom of the page, possibly a footer or a concluding note, continuing the script from the main body.

(Faint handwritten Tibetan script)

1. The first of these is the fact that the system is not a simple one, and that it is not possible to find a single formula which will give the value of the function for all values of the argument. This is due to the fact that the function is not linear, and that it is not possible to find a single formula which will give the value of the function for all values of the argument.
